

ABSTRACT

A system for detecting the time exceeding conditions of at least one application being executed by a processor, including: an element for storing time conditions, the conditions being sorted by increasing deadline order; a register for storing the condition
5 closest to the current date; and a comparator of the deadline contained in the register with the current date of the system.